World Scientific Handbook of Global Health Economics and Public Policy
The Economics of Health and Health Systems

Edited by Richard M. Scheffler, University of California, Berkeley, USA

“Understanding global health economics and policy has never been so important. This remarkable three volume collection of chapters is sure to become the standard on health economics and health policy around the world.”

David Cutler, Otto Eckstein Professor of Applied Economics, Harvard University

“These three volumes provide a comprehensive collection of cutting-edge, evidence and analysis on some of the most important economic issues facing the health sector written by some of the best in the field. This Handbook is an invaluable contribution to the field of health economics.”

Tim Evans, World Bank, Senior Director of Health, Nutrition

“This impressive opus is setting the tone in Global Health Economics for the years to come. A reference book with a guaranteed extended shelf life for both learners and doers.”

Agnes Soucat MD, PhD, Director Health Systems, Governance and Financing, World Health Organization

“The comprehensive range of topics addressed, the evidence-based approach and the eminence of contributors makes this global handbook a must have resource for newcomers in the field as well as for established experts.”

Valerie Paris, Senior Economist, OECD Health Division

“An outstanding collection of some of the best work in global health economics. Indispensable.”

Julian Le Grand – Professor, London School of Economics

“Never before has such a wide-ranging and thorough collection by leading scholars in global health economics been assembled. Scholars and policymakers alike will gain key insights into this burgeoning field.”

Tom Rice, Distinguished Professor, UCLA Fielding School of Public Health

“An impressively comprehensive and wide-ranging compendium of information, insights, and thoughtful opinion, this compendium fills an important gap, bringing together perspectives from economics and health thinkers.”

David de Ferranti, President and Co-founder of Results for Development
